📇 Profile

As a student in the fourth year of the networking and information security major, I learned a lot about information technology in my first year at Arab Open University, and I learned several things about networks and information security at Al-Najah National University. I learned about networks programming, configuring and building networks, and other topics in information security. Through my experiences in the two universities and the media club, I was able to manage projects and events, form public relations, and learn several skills, as described in my resume.
