PROFILE

A passionate and dedicated biologist with over 10 years of experience in public health and education. Successfully completed hands-on training in a yogurt manufacturing unit, providing exceptional customer service and ensuring adherence to store policies. As a public health biologist, I collaborate with health professionals to implement interventions and analyze data to identify patterns of disease. Moving into the role of secondary science teacher, I provided emotional support to students and developed systematic plans to improve concentration and learning processes. Possessing strong leadership, communication, and interpersonal skills, along with adaptability and proficiency in Microsoft Office, I am eager to bring my diverse experiences to the classroom.
